Topic : Empowerment of Youth

YOUTH EMPOWERMENT : AN EXIT FROM

— THE DARK DUNGEONS —

The great Greek philosopher Aristotle defined man as a social being. Any human who stands apart from this concept has to put on the attire of either God or devil. The assigned topic elucidates a message of abiding relevance to the upcoming generation as it is associated with the dire need of inculcating a youth full of energy as well as upholding humanitarian values.

In India, the second most populated country around 60% of the whole population is youth. It is clear that hence the given topic needs a deep introspection. Empowerment of Youth is the central pillar for building and transforming a nation in order to attain its peak development.

What actually mean by the empowerment of youth?

Empowerment of youth means that, transforming our childhood as well as teenage being a part of upcoming generation i.e. youth, for building, rebuilding, moulding as well as transforming our country to the world's best.

Primarily our eyes should fall on the '3L's' of empowerment

⇒ Learning

⇒ Labour

⇒ Leadership

The great philosopher Emerson deserves a quote here

" Education is the way to attain ultimate personality development "

According to the constitution of India children under 14 years are provided with compulsory education. The Kothari commission put forwarded the idea that education is the key to empowerment of youth. Sir. Personnel also said the same concept in his famous thesis regarding psychology of children. Education makes a man perfect. Education is a continuous process. Education moulds our youth to the perfect state to maintain good citizenship.

we human beings cannot be an 'isolated Lilliputian in the strange treasure island'. Education is the door to society. Education makes a man courageous enough to interfere in the public issues.

One of the main problems faced by the Indian youth is unemployment. The second 'L' represents labour which is the solution to reduce the intensity of unemployment. what we can see now a days is the 'brain flood' from India to other developed countries.

It is a funny fact that most of the CEOs of multinational companies are India's. The best example here is Vishal Sikka the former CEO of the internet king 'Google'. This unlucky practise makes our country ~~feble~~ poor day by day. We should provide our youngsters with maximum job opportunities and good salary to prevent this unhealthy habit. The government should initiate the measures for creating new job opportunities in our country as soon as possible. Why shall we stamp ourselves to the down series rather than climbing next step to development.

The 3rd L of empowerment is 'leadership'. We Indians are capable enough to achieve any target, but we people didn't realise this fact and what we express outside is some sort of 'introversion'. What is benefit of being in a self contracted state? We should definitely fly in colours to make our country to stand on the top of the world. our country don't need 'Book nerds', we want a youth with ignited mind to assure a safe and splendid future. The NITI Aayog (National Institution for Transforming India) recently published a project on youngsters of India. They cleared us once again the fact that youth is the real architect of nation.

After the 3L's of empowerment we should insist our youth to maintain their health. As we all know health is the greatest wealth, we should make our youngsters ^{to realise} the fact nutrition is the brain food. we need a healthy generation to mould India what we need are not drug factories but those individuals who will exhort the next generation to maintain the same path that they had gone through.

The father of evolution principles, Charles Darwin once said that "In the big metamorphosis changes may undergo to shape and forms frequently but it should not effect the innate instincts which makes us human being"

In the passage of time, our youngsters often forgot about our culture. The great Indus valley civilisation is the origin of present Indian culture, even western people look upon our culture as the best. But we people now a days shows affinity towards European mode of livelihood. This 'westernphobic' or 'Indiophobic' character should change. It should be one of our mission, aim and gospel to protect our culture.

According to the survey by NCMC (National crisis management committee), more than 80% of the youngster's death are caused by road accidents. We should make our youngsters aware of the traffic signals and rules so that the rate of the accidents can be reduced upto an extent. It is a fearful matter that it is capable enough to topsy-turvy the whole population.

It is noted that crimes in our country is increasing every day. While looking behind the reasons we are able to see the black hands of 'Drugs' according to Indian constitution unauthorised usage of drugs are liable to rigorous punishment. But due to the lack of proper administration system, the wide varieties of drugs such as cannabinoids, alkaloids, ganja, hashish, charas, opium, morphine, LSD etc. are ~~common~~ becoming savage of death of youngsters. This practise should change as soon as possible. Until these hands of death prevail in our society we can't achieve the ultimate aim of pure development. For the empowerment of youth first of all we should ban drugs, remember the adage that 'the one who dig pits, will definitely fall into it'

A world full of illusions and hallucinations is provided by drugs, but we should grow the potential to see our earth's sanctity in the right sense. We should make our youth aware about the epidemics of drugs for a better tomorrow.

In my concept of democracy, we youth are the primary holders of nationalism. Politics is what we want to build in the mind of youth. Politics is not ruffianism or hoodlomanism, politics is quite different from political science. Youngsters must possess a good knowledge in ~~both~~ political field. What we need is good representatives for the people. By the new verdict of Honourable High court of Kerala, campus politics is banned.

It is clear that a society without political consciousness will definitely fall in the dark dungeons. The one sided verdict need to be rechecked. The youth must be aware of politics and political science from stake theory to collective responsibility as it is proposed by the ~~fr~~ French philosopher Rousseau.

The great thinker Confucius deserves a quote here

" May the fragrance of thousand flowers bloom and spread into eternity, may a society with amply motivated society lead the world "

The amply motivation said here is only possible through proper political awareness. For the empowerment of youth it is clear that politics play an important role.

One of the main problem Indian nation face today is terrorism. It is an unlucky matter that due to the lack of correct ~~knowlege~~ knowledge about religions, most of the youths are attracted to these intranational activities. We should make our youth aware that nation as well as world is the primary choice. We should give priority to our co-beings. Anti-terrorism is the main way to youth empowerment.

We children are tomorrow's citizens. The future is in our hand. We shall consider the cardinal values and sanctity of our mother Earth. We need to stop over materialisation.

The youth should be aware of the ethnic transformation and biodiversity conservation. As nature is closely connected with life's of humanbeings, ecological priority should be given. Thus it become one of the aspects of youth empowerment to protect nature.

The famous literary stalwart Maxim Gorki once said,

"man; what a nice word!"

But unfortunately our sacredness is contracted just into the word meaning of Homo sapiens. The youth must realise the importance of humanitarian values like love, sympathy, compassion, fellow-feeling etc. as it is associated with the ultimate mission of youth empowerment.

A society of youngsters who are sunken ~~is~~ in the cocoon of social medias is the final result of 21st century. We should insist our youngsters to exit from this large coccoons of electronic gadgets to the realistic life of our companions in the blue planet. The worth of the social media is a great boon as well as its worthlessness is the worst and tragic bane.

A youth with self consciousness will be the final product of empowerment. We should move forward with the motto of 'Youth empowerment: the loophole to existence'. The needs for youth empowerment runs endlessly. As Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam said, "It is the ignited minds of youth that make our country to run to development". Youth empowerment should be our ultimate, mission, aim and gospel.

The multitude faces of empowerment shall be considered before the initiation.

The burning mind of youngsters will definitely act as the fuel to run this world.

Youth empowerment is going to be the solution for various problems that we face today.

Youngsters are the real architects of world. It is their responsibility to hand over this baton those who are running behind them. We look upon October 15, the birthday of our former President as well as former chairman of ISRO, Sri. Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam as Youth day. As a tribute to this great personality, the missile man of India, let us walk hand in hand to the ultimate aim of youth empowerment.

Let us put a full stop to discrimination, subjugation of downtrodden, terrorism, unemployment, illiteracy, drug abuse and other social evils engrossed in our society. Let us be cautious about the upcoming menace. Let us understand the prominent and precarious usage of social medias. At the end let us carve a new world of equality via empowerment of youth, the key to unlock all the problems,

Remember,

'Tongues cannot be tied.'
