

Empowerment Of Youth

While you drive your knowledge to different aspects of society, certainly there will arise an undistinguishable position for youth. Yes, youth could be called the basic key of a society to explore its needy factors ahead its journey. They could be named as the backbone of a nation.

To say, India is quite fortunate as it is known for having the most number of youngsters for its ahead progress. And, it could be very valuable for the nation to empower its youth instead of degrading it. So, it's very precious, for 'Youngsters' to empower themselves and be a great enthusiast for their nation.

Youth, obviously, the age starting just after the end of teenage and going through puberty and reaching of a time when they go independent of certain unusual commitments and gives a way for their gradual development for their family as well as society and nation.

Youth, 'an asset' for his own country and a great posture for the integral, mental and physical development of an individual's life time. Youth is immediately asking, responding, working and able generation to fill the past collections of their own skills and unique abilities. While a country is going through a rapid scheme of development, youth indulges its varied and unique promises and affordable passion for its society.

Man is a social animal. He is to be a social being who sees the responsibilities of his surroundings as one of his too. The forward relatively called movement of various nations are an agreed work of the youth, as, it is a great chapter for the whole mankind.

Describing the present youth as words of intellectual aspirations and advanced techies are somewhat applicably right for the own generation's empowerment. To develop, as per the wanted condition of the required strategy for the highlights of the functioning of certain biased forces the youth of the present day are really tempting to range from 'an asset' to a liable condition.

The certain forces could be called as the useless effects of technology, alcoholism, corruption, drug addiction etc, will be a only few of the so called branches. But, to deviate from those paths, empowerment is necessary. As we observe our society, we could realize a number of icons of youth are slipping down the slippery slopes of inefficiency and illegal activities.

To deal with, how can empower the present day youth, which is at the verge of its socially destruction? Really, it is a question that could make us perplexed. But, no need of confusion should there for me, since, I represent a typical 'one' among the millions of youngsters in India.

2. Empowerment means to create a certain limits for the unnecessary deeds of youth and strengthen the allowed clusters of each individual among them.

Firstly, the need of a job or the root advancement of education is required. 'Education is the manifestation of power already in man'. Therefore, we should make the present youth able of its spiritual and intellectual development in an order to eradicate unemployment, a curse. Still our society projects number of unemployed citizens, they all should get mere answer to their life with the need and sure access of education.

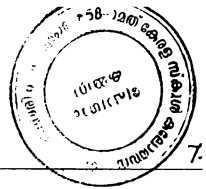

Secondly, the society is responsible for creating a patriotic mind for youth and as a lack of them, they could be easily distracted towards the harmful weapons against society such as terrorism, regionalism, casteism, among each one. They should understand 'quantitative and qualitative' uses of laws to empower themselves and go in search of their own destinies of fulfilment of 'youth's desires'.

Youth is really a life of both social commitment and interactions. To produce a mass of crowd with fleshy brains of 'Einstein knowledge', should not be the ultimate aim, but a youth which resembles the qualities of a good generation with skilled character and awakened mind of usefulness. Both, boys and girls, or, men and women, comprise the youngsters and as a result, they should 'engulf' the partial, but the social responsibility of each youngster for their mutual advancement in clearing and approaching the meaningfulness of qualitative assessment of life.

Youth could be also made enabling factor through politics. In present days, colleges and even some schools are been the useful 'playgrounds' of politics, which generate a prosperous social leader, who could build the functional segments of the society.

Youth of India should culturally and socially able to discover the heritage and colourfulness of our country with its own dreams and progress for the enlargement of each one's psyche and soul for their life full time. The 'brilliances' which all could afford is also a perfect myth, which could enbound the whole educational, as well as, technical means of functional advocations for their empowerment.

The cascading effects of certain forces should not blow the accuracy youth in the present situation. 'If you are to be not be blown off you will stay as a gem of our nation', these words of Napoleon Bonaparte for all youngsters is really applicable and punctually correct too. For them, it is obviously right to find a binding resource or energy to hail from the required questions of each one present for the 'logical reasoning' of every youngster's life.

If the youth of present day become an empowered one in our country, then it will grow as the sensational rescuing force which will pull up the nation in every aspects ahead of the world. If they need to change as the pearls of the society, they should absorb the sensational values of 'harmony' and correlation of its life with the scheme of development.

Let me trace your attention towards the lines of the poem penned by Maya Angelou, which deals with youth strengthening:

"Uses and uses, of verses and traces
in life, could go down with me,
As not a human, but as a teen
As a youngster who embrace me
For the rapid crash of know, and the value of life and love and ethics,"

There is the fact, the youth could go like the lines of verses, but if it could make a country's life, then, it should be as a characteristic of the general youngster, who could light up the various aspects of society.

To put in a nutshell, the hour's need is to save the present youth, empower them and protect them for the general advancement of the values given by an important version of development of a country. Remember that, youth is an asset for the whole nation which requires the mere needs of enhancement of one's own nation and its mutual, perhaps, but, sure link of the general versatility of each youth. For the present status of our country to be grown, youth empowerment is required and should be progressed.

As per the words of Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam, 'India would become a powerful and greatful nation in 2020, with a huge mass of workful, effortful and brilliant youth'. Let's wait for a moment like that to approach. Let the Youth be 'Empowered' !
