"In the end is my beginning."

Down THE Road.....

Down the road into the darkness,
I walked ; alone .

Behind me lies the world .

My world ; broken .

Down the road lined by trees,
I walked ; away .

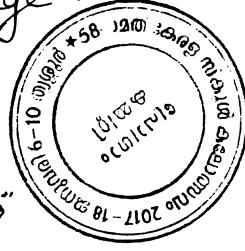

Away from my past .

My past , it was frightening .

Down the road that disappeared into horizon,
I walked ; aimlessly .

There was something inside me,
my heart ; crumbled

Down the road that is grassy,
I walked ; tremblingly .

"What happened to you?
asked my heart.

Silence was my reply.

"Why are you running away?"
there came the next question.

"Look at my past,"
my reply was slow.

Down the road to oblivion,
I walked ; tensed.

We looked at my rotten past.

Want to know what was in there?

Shattered dreams, faked smiles,
untold truths, spreaded rumours,
abandoned masks, untied rags,
broken promises, hidden sorrows
and above all, the myth of love .

Down the road to peace,
I walked ; drained.

"But how can all these happen?"
asked my curious heart .

"Oh, dear have you forgotten ?

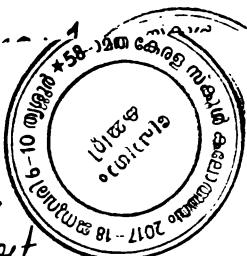

We lived it together...

so shall we have a look at those again."

said me with a shiver in my spine .

Behind the seasons for seasons,
I travelled; with a skip in heart.

There slept a man in white...

Who was he?

My guardian angel, my hero,
the backbone of all my success,
my light in darkness,
my fate^{faith} in loss,
the soulsculptor of my words
and my first love; my father.

Next to him there was another body.

Who was it?

My destiny decider, my pathfinder,
the one I loved first,
my first teacher, my helper,
my hope in failure,
my desire to win,
another true love; my mother.

"Why are they sleeping too long?"

asked my little brother innocently

"They are gone forever."

said my mind not my mouth.

Why was my baby sister crying?

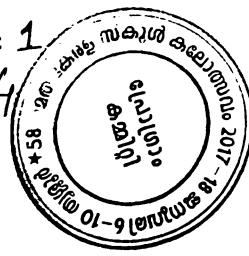

For her parents or

Due to her empty stomach.

Their goodbye was too brief.

I engulfed my grief and,

Smiled to my siblings.

Down the road to solace,
I walked; thoughtfully.

"But how was it?"
enquired my shocked heart.
"We shall revisit the site one more"
I told gently.

Behind the seasons for answers
I travelled; with faster heartbeats.

That evening was lonely,
they all were happy.

But suddenly, from where do those people rushed in?

I grabbed the younger ones
and rushed under the table.

We watched our parents
being brutally murdered.

Those knives killed my parents
and seized my heart.

Then-

Those days passed speedily.

I lived, for my younger ones
till the fate snatched them.

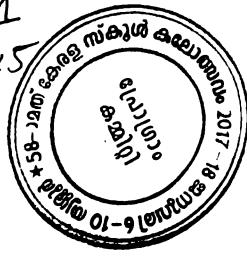

Broken I became.

Lost and drained was my feeling.
So now let me vanish..

Down the road to a shelter,
I walked; silently.

"So are you going to ~~find~~ hide?"
asked my heart slowly.

"No, I am going to strengthen myself."

my reply was strong.

I am going away to be strong enough to revenge.

I am running away now to come back one day.

Let the killers enjoy their victory.
In the end of those I will return,
to end them safely.

Down the road to be safe,

I walked...

I didn't curse,

I didn't weep,

I just walked.

Down the road into darkness,

I walked to vanish.

Vanish from the world
and from my weaknesses.

Down the road into solitude,

I walked to return.

Return to the world
and to my memories.

To return at the end.

The end when the medias
and society forget my family's tragedy.

From there I will begin because...

In the end is my beginning.
