

"The one who stole my love"

Your brown fur and dazzling smiles,
which had taken me hundreds of miles.

Your plethora of love melts my heart and the appealing smile touched my soul.

Being with you feels like I'm in heaven.
Whom would know this would happen.

I'm a flowing river in your presence,
now a flowless one.....

My enigmatic joy when I first saw you was just like a day before.

At that time, I even forget my work and played with you today's solitude mood broke my heart.

I have hidden those painful memories
behind my callused heart.

Item Code:

692

Participant Code:

108

But even in my dream

I could realise it's you!

Even though you went away letting me lonely

your paw prints are still like pierced thorn in my heart which can't be ruined.

don't be angst of the dark...

The darkness under the green sod is much better than this world of darkness.