Your shadow seemed more real than your body

You came as someone who would never go away
Now it seems like only your shadow wants to stay
You gave all the hope when I was left in all blue lighting my way up when I had no clue

Never thought my view of people would change
Cause all of them hurting me was in that range
But you came ^{and} ~~add~~ changed my prespective
Opened my mind which was so secretive

Love had turned hate in my eyes
Cause the world was filled with a million lies
Like the one my mom told me when I was eight
She told me she would come back for me to wait

Minutes passed, hours passed, she never came Till this day, I don't know whom to blame
Maybe it's my loneliness that made us close
Now like my mom you'll also be included in my loss

Held me together when the world gave me pressure
Now it makes me wonder, "Was it all for just pleasure?"
Picked up my pieces while I was falling
I was fooled by you calling me darling

Times when I felt like you'd be the one
Never thought for you, all this would be just fun
It's so stupid of me that I didn't know
That you would also leave me feeling low

Like before you changed my view again
But this time it was with killing pain
You changed so fast like how my mom left
Made me loose all the hope I had kept

Why is the world always proving me wrong?
Can't it just heal me cause I've been waiting so long?
Spent all my life looking like a clown
Played it so well, you could give me the crown

Drowning in my tears full of misery
Begging for God to heal me desperately
All I wanted was someone I could trust and rely on Not someone who leaves at a state where I can't move on

Feel so bad for myself, I am so sorry
Wish there was someone who would feel that for me
"You hurt me so well" said my bleeding heart
I wish you showed some mercy before tearing me apart

You could've warned me sooner, maybe left me a letter
I really wish I knew your intentions better
Now I see your shadow waving goodbye but not you
I know that your body is leaving, can it be not true?.....
