The God 's Gift

Once upon a time there lived a little girl named Nina she was very beautiful. She had curly hair. But she did not like it. She had heard of straightening the hair. She also wanted to get her hair straightened. But parent did not agree to her idea. She went to there family doctor and revealed her desire to straighten the hair. The doctor convinced her that her curly hair suited her. But she could not accept it. She stood firm in her plan. The doctor taught her the fact that she should be contented with her legs, arms, eyes or any organs thinking about the people who are born handicapped or without any of these organs. Her mind was stuck for moment and the doctor's words went deep into her thoughts. She told the doctor at the very moment that she did not want a change in her hair since it is the noble gift of God. She returned home as a new approach the world.

DESIRE

After bath, coming out of the bathroom something had struck in this eyes. With great curiosity found that it was thousand rupees. ‘Wow! Money!’ both murmured in his mind. In a few seconds, some sparkles had occurred in his mind. His eyes rolled around for checking no one! Let’s do! Said his mind. He picked up that money and put it in his bag.

“Today I can buy many chocolates and toffees and become a star in my class.”

“Both, my son, did No! mom ,” in a little terribleness. “Nothing, dear” said mom in a hurry burry.

By giving a kiss to his mother he left home with great hope. But he did not see the tenacious mind of his mother.

“Brother, give me toffees for this money,,

“For this much?” shopkeeper asked surprisingly. “Why do you need.....”

“No question. Please give.” He stopped the man.

In a great anxiety he bough the packet from the shopkeeper.

With great pride he entered into the class and showed his friends the packet. They all covered him and praised him. At that time he starts looking at one of his classmates who become a star yesterday. This moment is very special for me, he said in his mind.

After leaving school walking to his home, he remembered the precious moments in his life. “Oh! I become a star’ he said and laughed.

But at that time he saw scattered things in front his house. He entered into the house. Everything has been destroyed. A neighbour came and displaced him from there.

“What happened?”

“Nothing, son”

“Please..... “

“Your mother had borrowed some money lenders and today was the last date to pay.

But she couldn't pay they come here and..... “

“Where is my Mon?”

“She is in hospital”

He remembered about the money that he had stolen. But he never thought about its effects.

“My fault! My fault”the murmured.

Tears rolled down from his eyes as a sign of regret.’

THE STORY OF MY LIFE

Mean While the desire to express myself grew. The few signs I used become less and and less adequate, and my failures to make myself understood were invariably followed by outbursts of passion. I felt as if invisible hands were holding me, and i made frantic efforts to free myself. I struggle—not that struggling helped matters, but the spirit of resistance was strong within me; I generally broke down in tears and physical exhaustion. If my mother happend to be near I crept into her arms, too miserable even to remember the cause of the tempest. After a while the need of some means of communication became so urgent that these out brusts occurred daily, sometimes hourly.

My parents were deeply grieved and perplexed. We lived a long way from any school for the blind or the deaf, and it seemed unlikely that any one would come to such an out-of-the-way place as Tuscumbia to teach a child who was both deaf and blind. Indeed, my friends and relatives some times doubted whether I could be taught. My mother's only ray of hope came from Dickens's "American Notes." She had read his account of Laura Bridgman, and remembered vaguely that she was deaf and blind, yet had been educated. But she also remembered with a hopeless pang that Dr. Howe, who had discovered the way to teach the deaf and blind, had been dead many years. His methods had probably died with him; and if they had not, how was a little girl in a far-off town in Alabama to receive the benefit of them?

When I was about six years old, my father heard of an eminent oculist in Baltimore, who had been successful in my many cases that had seemed hopeless. My parents at once determined to take me to Baltimore to see if anything could be done for my eyes.

The journey, which I remember well was very pleasant. I made friends with many people on the train. One lady gave me a box of shells. My father made holes in these so that I could string them, and for a long time they kept me happy and contented. The conductor, too, was kind. Often when he went his rounds I clung to his coat tails while he collected and punched the tickets. His punch, with which he let me play, was a delightful toy . Curled up in a corner of the sea I amused my self for hours making funny little holes in bits of cardboard.

My aunt made me a big doll out of towels. It was the most comical shapeless thing, this improvised doll, with no nose, mouth, ears or eyes--nothing that even the imagination of a child could convert in to a face. Curiously enough, the absence of eyes struck me more than all the other defects put together. I pointed this out to everybody with provoking persistency, but no one seemed equal to the task of providing the doll with eyes. A bright idea, however, shot into my mind, and the problem was solved. I tumbled off the seat and searched under it until I found my aunt's cape, which was trimmed with large beads. I pulled two beads off and indicated to her that I wanted her to sew them on my doll. She raised my hand to her eyes in a questioning way, and I nodded energetically. The beads were sewed in the right place and I could not contain myself for joy; but immediately I lost all interest in the doll. During the whole trip I did not have one fit of temper, there were so many things to keep my mind and fingers busy. When we arrived in Baltimore, Dr. Chisholm received us kindly: but he could do nothing. He said, however, that I could be educated, and I advised my father to consult Dr. Alexander Graham Bell of Washington, who would be able to give him information about schools and teachers deaf or blind children. Acting on the doctor's advice, we went immediately to Washington to see Dr. Bell, my father with a sad heart and many misgivings, I wholly unconscious of his anguish, finding pleasure in the excitement of moving from place to place. Child as I was, I at once felt the tenderness and sympathy which endeared Dr. Bell to so many hearts, as his wonderful achievements enlist their admiration. He held me on his knee while I examined his watch, and he it strike for me. He understood my signs, and I knew it and loved him at once. But I did not that that interview would be the door through which I should pass from darkness into light, from isolation to friendship, companionship, knowledge, love.

Dr. Bell advised my father to write to Mr. Anagnos, director of the Perkins Institution in Boston, the scene of Dr. Howe's great labours for the blind, and ask him if he had a teacher competent to begin my education. This my father did at once, and in a few weeks there came a kind letter from Mr. Anagnos with the comforting assurance that a teacher had been found. This was in the summer of 1886. But Miss Sullivan did not arrive until the following March.

Thus I came up out of Egypt and stood before Sinai, and a power divine touched my spirit and gave it sight, so that I beheld many wonders. And from the sacred mountain I heard a voice which said, "Knowledge is love and light and vision".

The cross

*A symbol of my faith
That strengthens me each day
As I by God's grace
Walk the narrow way*

*You see God's own son
He gave his life for me
And took my debt of sin
To a place called calvary*

*I own him my life
And all I'll ever be All he ask is that*

*So I run the race
Empowered by his grace
And give him all the glory
As I took into it is face jesus is loro*

one is labelled cake and one is labelled FRUIT. Mary in the wrong box. At the picnic, she tells everyone that the FRUIT is not in the cake box.

Where is the cake?

ANSWERS: The cake

the cake is not in the CAKE box, and it can't be in the cookie box, because that's the only place for the fruit. so it must be in the

MAN WITH A FOX

A man went on a trip with a fox, a goose and a sack of corn. He came upon a stream. Which he had to cross and found a tiny boat to cross the stream. He could only take him self and one other-the fox, the goose, or the corn-at a time. He could not leave the fox alone with the goose or the goose alone with the corn. How does he get all safely over the stream?

Answer: Take the goose over first and come back. Then take the fox over and bring the goose back. Now take the corn over and come back alone to get the goose. Take the goose over and the job is done!

SMILE

It is a star

That twinkle in our face

It is not an emotion

I can't feel it

Then what is smile ?

It blossoms in our face

When we are happy

It gives positive energy

And pleasant atmosphere

It is the gift of God

It destroys all the sadness

It makes happiness to the whole world

It is an expression which only the humans have

We have to express it

With pleasant face.

O cross of christ

*O cross of christ immortal tree
On which our saviour died
The world is sheltered by your arms
That bore the crucified*

*From sinner death and barren wood
The tree of life is made life branches bear unfailing fruit And leaves that never fade*

*faith full cross you stand unmoved While ages run their course
Foundation of the universe Creation minding force*

*Give glory to the risen christ
And to his cross give praise
The sign of God's unfailing love
The hope of all our days*

Meeting at Night

*The grey sea and the long black land ;
And the yellow half-moon large and low;
And the startled little waves that leap
In fiery ringless from their sleep,
As I gain the cove with pushing prow,
And quench its speed in the slushy sand.*

*Then a mile of warm sea - scented beach;
Three fields to cross till farm appears;
A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spurt of a lighted match
And a voice less loud, though its joys and fear
Then the two hearts beating each and each*

My mom

Mom, you become a strength for me
Become pleasant for me all time Throw all your need for me.

You are the speed of light
In my dark way of life
You teach me what is life
And how to face it.

No one can be placed instead of you, mom
Your courage, before Your challenges, is inspired.

No one is kinder than you
You face all your challenges
With a pleasant mind.

You never say
'No' to anything

You are a form of courage, sacrifice, kindness, love, care, confidence happiness, every good thing in world.

Hang it on the cross

*If you have a secret sorry
A burden or a loss
An aching need for healing
Hang it on the cross*

*If worry steals your sleep
And makes you turn and loss
If your heart is feeling heavy
Hang it on the cross*

*Every obstade to faith
Or doubt you come a corss every prayer unanswared*

Hang it on the cross

For christ has borne our brokenness

And turn our trials to triumph Hanging on the cross

“put God first , and you’ll never be last
