

GET UP

It was around five O'clock when Meredith Palmer got up from her office chair to go home. She was an accountant at a paper company. When she was about to leave she saw a package in front of her office with no address except for her name written on it. Curiously Meredith opened the package. The package contained some sort of gin with no label. Meredith thought to herself, 'Who's gifting me alcohol, even though it's not my birthday?'. She didn't worry about it too much and left home in a cab. On reaching home she ~~felt~~ went straight to bed.

At around midnight she woke up not knowing what happened. When she woke the alcohol bottle was sitting on the bedside. She was interested to find out taste of it. When she opened the bottle a weird aroma was spread across her room. She grabbed a wine glass and poured the alcohol on in it. She took a sip expecting something new. But it didn't tasted like any other alcohol. All of a sudden she felt kind of dizzy and fell unconscious. When she woke up again it was around 8:00 clock at night. She heard people talking in the living room. Normally Meredith doesn't have much people coming to her house except for special occasions. She didn't quite remember the time she fell asleep. All she remembers is coming home from the office and going to sleep. When she walked into the living room she saw her office friends talking gossip. One of her friend Pamela said, 'He didn't want to wake you up from sleep, anyway come join us'. Meredith said, 'No, I'm good. My head is not feeling that well. I might going outside for a walk'. She went to the grocery store to buy some snacks for her friends. While she was buying snacks she also grabbed a beer from the freezer. She went after that she went to a park near the grocery store. She finished her beer while sitting on a bench in that park. She was feeling really drunk and decided to go home. To get to her home she had cross some roads. While she was crossing a road a truck smashed into her before she even had time to think. Suddenly she woke up from her bed panicking. It all felt very real to her. When she got up from her bed she heard people talking in her living room. When she went to the living room she saw her friends from office talking gossip, the same way she saw in her dream. She couldn't believe her eyes. When her friend Pamela invited her to talk she rejected like the dream or went out. She had to understand what was happening. Her aunt was a psychiatrist. So she decided to visit her. Upon reaching her aunt's apartment Meredith explained everything. Her aunt said that Meredith might be having some issues with her life. Her aunt recommended some anti-depressants to Meredith. But she wasn't really satisfied with the visit. So she left unhappy. When she entered the elevator in the apartment, she decided to go to the roof of it. Suddenly the lift stopped and started to go down. One of the people inside the elevator pushed the stop button but it didn't stop. The lift was falling faster and faster. Everyone was screaming inside the elevator. The lift crashed into the ground floor killing everybody including Meredith. To her surprise she woke up from her bed again. This time she was more confused than being frightened.

She got up from her bed and went straight into the living room. She saw her friends talking like in the past two dreams. She thought to ~~bed~~ herself, 'My aunt has a lot of explaining to do. She grabbed her coat ~~went~~ and went straight to her aunt's house. Her aunt didn't believe her. She discarded the whole story as a result of stress. Meredith, at this point, didn't know what to do. She left her aunt's apartment furiously without saying anything. But this she took another elevator. When she entered the elevator she saw a young man of her age in there. She decided to go home instead of going to the roof. But it didn't work. The elevator malfunctioned nevertheless. She was calm, because she knew she was going to wake up in her bed. To her surprise the guy next to her was also calm. She told him, 'You know we are going to die, right?'

He replied, 'Yes, how do you know that?'. They were both confused. She said, 'If you wake up, meet me at Delia's park'. The crushed as she finished her sentence. This time when she woke up she had hope, knowing that she was not the only one having this dream-loop issue. ~~She~~ She said bye to her friends while she was leaving the house and went straight to Delia's park. On reaching the park she saw the same guy from the elevator, sitting on a bench. She walked towards him. Both of them didn't know what to say to each other. Heredith asked 'What's your name?', he replied 'I'm Noorin'. She asked 'How long have been experiencing this?'. He said 'About three or four times, I really don't know ~~to~~ how to stop it and I desperately need your help'. Both of them felt bad for each other. Nourin explained that ~~the~~ all of this happened after he took a sip of alcohol. Meredith said that the same thing happened to her. ~~So~~ They both went to Nourin's house to find an explanation. But as they were about to reach Nourin's house a car crashed into their car killing both of them. But they woke up in their bed nonetheless. During their plan to find ~~an~~ a solution to stop they both have die around 10 times. Deaths ranging from breaking necks to explosion of a gas stove. So Meredith put forward an idea. ~~what~~ if they both drink the same alcohol again. Nourin ^{also} agreed to this.

Both of them got their drink and took a sip. They fell unconscious immediately. Meredith woke up, but she wasn't in her bed. She was in someone else's bed. She heard someone crying in the balcony of the room. She got up and ~~to~~ looked. It was Marvin. He was drunk and talking to himself. Meredith called him, 'Marvin! Hey, what are you doing near the edge of the balcony?' Marvin looked back and said, 'Who are you?' Meredith was shocked. She explained briefly ~~the things~~ about the dreams that they were having. But ~~to~~ ~~he~~ he said, 'Get away from me, you crazy lady. Leave me alone, please. I'm going to end my life because no one loves me.' Meredith knew she had to do something. She tried her best to calm down.

Thomas, or else he'd jump. She begged her best to make him understand that killing himself would only make things bad. He got down from the rails of the balcony and hugged her and said 'Please don't ever let me be alone'. She calmed him down and made him lay on his bed. She didn't leave until he fell asleep. When she was about to leave she noticed that the alcohol bottle was missing from Thomas' house. When she reached her home she noticed that her alcohol bottle was also gone. She felt accomplished in a way. While this was going after Thomas took sip with Meredith again, he woke up in a ^{bench} in Del's park. He was confused. He heard a noise of a woman laughing. It was Meredith.
