When Shadows become Real!

In the realm of the unknown
He walks without virtue
A shadow follows his path
Similar in actions - nothing new.

With the wings of imagination
An escape - he paints, and continue
To put on the mask of disguise
While his shadow remains true.

His shadow accompanies him
In his lonely laments and melancholy
And, in the moments of elation
It pours him a silent symphony.

The shadow fades in the dark
Now, isolated he is at last
So, he wears the vindictive face
When in his heart echoes his past.

He creates a new life in a place
Where the boundaries of reality blur
Where hours blend into eternity
Where no shadow is a follower.

Beneath the weight of yesterday
He moves towards his abode, alone
Followed by his obedient mate
But only before the light is gone.

Stuck in a world of misbeliefs
For he is no longer himself
But his shadow always remained real
With recollections of his pastself.

Actions sucked the goodness in him
And he never attained the epiphany
His shadow often seemed to be
More real than his own body.
