The Golden Swan

One morning, when king Krishna Deva Raja's court was assembled, two men entered carrying a golden statue of a swan. All the courtiers were awestruck by the beauty of the statue.

The various diamonds and precious stones studded into the statue glittered in the daylight. The richness of the statue was in stark contrast to the poor appearance of the two messengers.

"Who are you and what do you want in our court?" asked the king.

'Maharaj, My Name is Ramu and this is my best friend Shamu. We have been best friends and neighbours since childhood. He grows vegetables and I am a rice farmer, In last month's unexpected, most of his harvest was destroyed and his fields became waterlogged,' said Ramu.

ENGLISH IS HARD

We'll begin With a box, and the plural is boxes, But the plural of ox becomes oxen, One fowl is a goose, but two are called geese, yet the plural of moose should never be meese. You may find alone mouse or a nest full of mice, yes the plural of house is houses not nice.

If the plural of man is always called men. Why Shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen ? If I Speak of my foot and show you my feet , And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet ? If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth, Why shouldn't the plural of tooth be called teeth?

Then One may be that, and three would be those, Yet hat in the plural Would never be hose, And the plural of cat is cat, not cose. We speak of a brother and also of brethren, But though we say mother, We never say methren . Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him, But the plural is not the, this of them!

*Kept the “World” in the mind,
Expected the day to come
Took the lamp to meet the Lord,
but, not the oil in the lamp.
Heard the cry over the sky,
To meet the king at midnight,
rushed to lamp and tried to trim,
failed to do without the oil,
Begged the oil, denied the Wises,
Went to buy in the midnight.*

*Oh ! Entered the King to tender the Hope,
The door shut down, the Hope put down,
No one cared, nor the cry listened,
and the foolish went unpleasant.
The foolish lost the Hope to reach the King in the feast with wises*

*A call on feast to all over Wises,
The “Wedlock” over under the light,
The King delighted for those awaited,
and His presence covered the Wishes*

*O ! remember the day is nearing,
the Call is coming but no one hearing.
Decide, no more fools, no more slumber,
obey the “Word” or face the judgement.*

Four Friends

Once upon a time in a small village lived four Brahmins named Satyanand, Vidhyanand, Dharmanand and Sivanand. They had grown up together to become good friends. Satyanand, Vidhyanand and Dharmanand were very knowledgeable. But Sivanand spent most of his time eating and sleeping. He was considered foolish by everyone.

Once famine struck the village. All the crops failed. Rivers and lakes started to dry up. The people of the villages started moving to other villages to save their lives.

"We also need to move to another place soon or else we will also die like many others," said Satyanand. They all agreed with him.

"But what about Sivanand?" Asked Satyanand.

"Do we need him with us? He has no skills or learning. We cannot take him with us," replied Dharmanand. "He will be a burden on us."

"How can we leave him behind? He grew up with us," said Vidhyanand.

"We will share what ever we earn equally among the four of us."

They all agreed to take Sivanand along with them.

They packed all necessary things and set out for a nearby town. On the way, they had to cross a forest.

As they were walking through the forest, they came across the bones of an animal. They became curious and stopped to take a closer look at the bones.

"Those are the bones of a lion," said Vidhyanand.

The others agreed.

"This is a great opportunity to test our learning," said Satyanand.

"I can put the bones together." So saying, he brought the bones together to form the skeleton of a lion.

“Dharmanand said, “I can put muscles and tissue on it.” Soon a lifeless lion lay before them.

“I can breathe life into that body.” said Vidhyanand.

But before he could continue, Sivanand jumped up to stop him. “No. Don't! If you put life into that lion, it will kill us all,” he cried.

“Oh you coward! You can't stop me from testing my skills and learning,” shouted an angry Vidhyanand. “You are here with us only because I requested the others to let you come along.”

“Then please let me climb that tree first,’ said a frightened Sivanand running towards the nearest tree. Just as Sivanand pulled himself on to the tallest branch of the tree Vidhyanand brought life into the lion. Getting up with a deafening roar, the lion attacked and killed the three learned Brahmins.

Cock-a-doodle doo

In a faraway land, there was a rooster who lived with his master and the wife. Every early morning, the rooster would make a very loud cock-a-doodle-doo sound. This shocked his master and the wife so much that they jumped up from their sleep.

One day, the rooster heard that his master and the wife wanted to slaughter him for dinner. He was afraid. He wanted to run away. But before he went off, he quickly took one of the wife's shoes and the master's fiddling stick. Then he ran off into the forest feeling happy and satisfied.

Always be careful of someone that you know. Because sometimes they have bad ideas towards you.

One night, there was a little baby who was still not asleep. His mother already tried rocking the baby to sleep but he was still wide awake. So, his mother took him to the window to see the stars.

The stars shone on the sea. The mother told the baby some stories about the stars. She said that there were two little stars that played peek-a-boo with two little fishes in the deep blue sea. And there were two little frogs that cried 'Neap, neap, neap. We also see a dear little baby who should be asleep!'

The baby was happy and delighted. Soon, the little baby grew sleepy and fell asleep in his mother's arms.

You should go to sleep when it is your bedtime.

Mother is the First and the Best Teacher

This is a beautiful story of a loving mother and her son. They were poor. The mother worked hard. She never lost hope. She was confident that her son would lead a comfortable life one day. She would advise him to meet the challenges of life courageously and not to be afraid of the hurdles in life.

One day his mother died. The son was left all alone in the world. It was difficult for him to believe that his mother died. At times he would blame God for his fate. The advice of his mother would comfort him. He decided to put into action the advice given by his mother. His mother wanted him to study and become a great person. He knew that he had to study but he had no money with him. All he had in hand was his determination to learn. He sought help from many persons. No one was ready to help him.

One day he met a man who owned a grocery shop. When the man heard his story he felt pity on him. He gave him a part time job in the shop. In the mornings the boy was able to attend school and in the evenings he worked in the shop. At night he used to learn everything taught in school. The man was very happy with the work of the boy. Years passed by. The man became old. Even the boy grew up. The man was not able to manage the shop. He left the management of the shop to this young man. The business in the shop flourished and the young man became rich.

Though he became rich, he never forgot the lessons taught by his mother.

Cleanliness in school

As you all know ,a student of our age lost her life due to snake bite which happened in the classroom.

What is cleanliness ? Cleanliness means that there is no dirt, no dust, no stains, no bad smells. The goals of cleanliness are health, beauty, absence of offensive odour and to avoid the spreading of dirt and contaminants to oneself and others.

We need to keep premises clean & tidy. We should ensure that the garbage of our school disposed off wisely. We should also ensure that the bushes & still water are removed. This will help to keep snakes and insects away.

Maintaining cleanliness in our school helps reduce student absences and teacher sick days. A student should help the authority to make sure that all areas of the building are cleaned, sanitized and disinfected year-round. That protects everyone's health on campus especially during flu season. Every student must be aware of the cleanliness at school and its premises.

On October 2nd we clean our school and premises. This must be done not only once in a year but also every day. We should never lose any other future of generations due to lack of cleanliness.

ALLEN JOHN KURIEN

TEACHER

In ancient times a king decided to find and honour the greatest person among his subjects.

A man of wealth and property was singled out. Another was praised for his healing powers, another for his wisdom and knowledge of the law. Still another was lauded for his business acumen. Many other successful people were brought to the place, and it became evident that the task of choosing the greatest would be difficult. Finally, the last candidate stood before the king. It was a woman. Her hair was grey. Her eyes shone with the light of knowledge, understanding and love.

"Who is this?" asked the king. "What has she done?" "You have seen and heard all the others," said the king's aide. "This is their teacher." The people applauded and the king came down from his throne and honoured her. Aristotle, the great Greek philosopher, used to repeatedly affirm "children have to respect their teachers more than their parents" because parents only give them life, but teachers teach them the art of life".

Friendship Is Great

Once upon a time there were two friends who loved each other very sincerely. They lived in Greenwich Village. They were Tom and Marco always together and happy. They were poor. But they always helped people whenever they could. There also lived a rich man, Leo who was very selfish. He doesn't care about any one and he was so greedy. He always tried to make these friends to fight each other. And he always failed in it.

One day Marco moved to London for making more money and to become rich. Tom left him happily. But Leo who was trying to make these idol friends to fight each other. He convinced Tom that Marco betrayed him and he will not come back. Tom who got angry hearing this decided to move to Saudi Arabia and become rich by farming Camels.

One year passed. Marco reached back to the village. When he searched Tom he was not there. He searched everywhere he knew. But he couldn't find him. He was very upset and enquired about Tom to Leo and he said that Tom is in Saudi Arabia. Hearing this he became very sad that Marco left him alone. He booked a ticket to Saudi Arabia and went to Saudi. When he reached Saudi, he was so hungry and he entered a hotel and ordered some food. When he saw the waiter, he was amazed. It was Marco. When Tom saw Marco, he became very happy. Marco had become very poor and had started working in a hotel. He also said what Leo said and why he came here. Both of them hugged and returned to the village. In the village they saw Leo and said "FRIENDSHIP IS THE MOST VALUABLE RELATION BETWEEN HUMANS"
