THE HONEST WOOD CUTTER

LONG, LONG AGO THERE WAS A POOR WOOD CUTTER IN A VILLAGE. ONE MORNING HE WENT TO THE FOREST. HE BEGAN TO CUT A TREE ON THE BANK RIVER. SUDDENLY HIS AXE SLIPPED OUT OF HIS HANDS AND FELL INTO THE RIVER. HE WAS VERY SAD. HIS EYES FILLED WITH TEARS.

HE SAT DOWN AND THOUGHT “WHAT CAN I DO? HOW CAN I WORK WITHOUT MY AXE? OH, GOD! HELP ME.?”

THEN THE RIVER GODDESS APPEARED BEFORE HIM IN THE RIVER. HE STOOD UP, FOLDED HIS HANDS AND ASKED “WHO ARE YOU, MADAM? CAN YOU GET MY AXE? IT IS IN THE RIVER.”

THE GODDESS DISAPPEARED IN THE RIVER WITHOUT GIVING ANSWERS TO HIS QUESTIONS.

The Cruel Governor

Once, a rich man's daughter fell in love with a brave man. This man used to punish people who cheated the poor. The governor of khotan was very unkind to the people, so the man had once punished him when he was all alone.

Later, the governor looked for the man with his soldiers but couldn't find him.

One day, a man came to the governor of khotan and said, "sir, the man you are looking for visit his beloved every night."

now, it was the governor's chance for revenge. So that night, he went to the women's house with his men and forced his way inside. They saw the brave man there. the women greeted the governor. She served him dinner.

While the governor and his men were eating, the women quickly helped the man escape through a window.

Then, she went to the governor and said, "sir, if you do not leave my house at once, I will call the people in the streets and tell them that you stole my jewels!"

the governor was angry but he had to leave, the clever woman saved the man and the governor was never able to catch him!

THE YOUNG PRINCE

A young prince once set out on a journey to find his fortune. He first reached Cairo where he met a king who welcomed him and promised to help him.

After four days at the king's palace, the prince became restless and wanted to leave. The king also went with him.

After travelling for many days, they came across a lake, they reached a huge palace. The palace was made of pure gold and precious stones. As soon as they went towards it, there was an earthquake.

"Let us go back," said the king, "there is nothing but danger here. Your fortune must be somewhere else."

The young prince agreed and they returned to Cairo. After a few days, he moved on to Baghdad. After all his travels, he was tired. So, he bought a palace and started living there.

One day, the young prince went to the house of the wazir. There he saw his beautiful daughter. Seeing her, he realised that a fortune man was the one who had a good wife. He finally understood that his fortune was not gold and jewels. He married the daughter of the wazir and went back to his home.

LAZY OX

Once upon a time, there a farmer who could understand animal's language. He had an ox and a donkey. They were kept in the same shed. The farmer need the donkey only when he went to the market. The ox worked hard every day in the field and came back to the shed tired.

The ox was very jealous of the donkey. He said, “you can rest daily in the shed. But I am so tired every day.”

The donkey asked, “Do you want a life similar to mine? Then act tired next morning, and don't go outside the shed master will not take you to work.”

The farmer who was standing near the shed heard this conversation. Next morning when the ox didn't come out of the shed, he tied the plow on the donkey. He took the donkey to the field. That evening, the ox thanked the donkey for his great idea. The ox continued this for a few days and the donkey became more tired each day.

One evening, when the farmer tied the shed, the ox was happily resting. The donkey said, "Today, on the way back, I heard our master telling that as you are very weak, and unable to work, he is planning to sell you to a butcher tomorrow."

Next morning when the farmer woke up, he saw the ox already out, ready to work. The farmer laughed aloud when he saw this. From then on, both the ox and the donkey never even dream of the other lifestyle.

Abdul's Strange Encounter

Once upon a time, there lived a man named Abdul. One day ,he decided to visit his relatives in the village, which was situated at the other end of a dense forest . He soon realised that night had fallen . An eerie feeling slowly began to engulf him . He could not see well in he darkness . But ,he could hear a variety of sounds -birds chirping , owls hooting ,frogs croaking . He even heard the trumpeting of elephants .How ever ,he kept on going ,slowly and softly . Suddenly ,a huge man jumped in front of him . He had a knife in one hand and told Abdul that he was going to kill him . Abdul asked him , 'why do you want to kill me ? Are we enemies?' the man laughed and replied , 'no, we are not enemies but still i want to end your life .'Abdul was scared and ran away to the riverside . But the man ran after him and caught him .Abdul was thrown on the ground and the man sat on Abdul so that he could not escape. Abdul was very scared , but even in his trouble, he remembered god.

He started to pray to god to protect him from this man . The man pulled out his knife and was just about to hurt Abdul ,when a strange thing happened . A crocodile came out of the river. Before they knew what was happening , the crocodile caught the man in his jaws and took him inside the water !

Abdul got up from the ground and thanked god for saving him from such a brutal man.

I'd soar though the air with the greatest of flair
I'd see all the mountains and trees from above
And the blue sea*

*So fly, fly, up in to the sky
And dream, dream that you have two wings
Just close your eyes and imagine your wings
And fly away with me, and fly away with me*

THE SPARROW AND THE FAIRY

Once, a sparrow went out to bring food for her babies. When she returned, the babies were missing! The sparrow was worried, as the babies had never gone out alone.

Just then, a fairy was passing by and saw her crying. The fairy stopped and asked, ‘Why are you crying?’

Tears rolled down the sparrow’s eyes as she explained that her children were missing.

‘Don’t worry! Your babies are safe. They will be back soon,’ said fairy and flew away.

A few days later, the baby sparrows come back. The Mother sparrow tells them how they all by themselves. The eldest said, “The fairy took us all to safe places. I stayed in a garden, and ate caterpillars and small worms.”

The second said, I lived in the court among the stable boys and fed on corns.”

The third said, I spent the summer on roads and ate barley.”

Then, the youngest said, I lived in a church, and fed on spiders and flies.”

The mother sparrow was relived. She said, I should not worry any more. Those who live in god’s house and under his fairy’s blessings are always safe.”

THE NAUGHTY HOBGOBLIN

There lived a cook who was not only fond of cooking but also eating what she had cooked.

One day, her master asked her to roast two chicken as some guest were expected for dinner. The chickens were almost done, but the guests had not yet arrived. So the master said, “I will go and bring them myself.”

Now, the cook was hungry and was tempted to eat the chicken. As she started out of the kitchen window, quite hungry by now, a hobgoblin appeared and said, “eat up the wings!” she thought, ‘ If I eat from only one chicken, the master will notice that something is missing.’ so she ate the wings of both the chickens

The cook was still hungry. Again, the naughty hobgoblin suggested, “Eat the whole chicken!” But, just then the cook’s master arrived.

He started sharpening the knife to carve the roasted chickens. The guests saw him do so.

The hobgoblin quietly went to the guests and whispered, “Run away, the man plans to cut your ears off!”

As the scared guests ran off with both the chickens!”

The hungry master chased his guests, crying out, ‘Give me at last one!’”

The hobgoblin rolled with laughter, while the cook ate both the chickens.

Blood Transfusion

The availability of blood leads to a new lease of life to those in dire need. It requires a reliable supply of safe blood, assured by a stable base of regular, voluntary, unpaid blood donors. The need for blood transfusion would arise at any time irrespective of where one is: in urban or rural area.

Facts* Around 108 million units of donated blood are collected globally every year.

Nearly 50% of these blood donations are collected in high-income countries, home to less than 20% of the world's population.

blood transfusion are used to support various treatments Voluntary unpaid donors account for 100% of blood supplies in 62 countries* About 10,000 blood centres in 168 countries report collecting a total of 83 million blood donation. The median annual blood donations per centre is 15,000 in high-income countries, as compared to 3,100 in middle and low income countries

Always screen donated blood: All donated blood should always be screened for HIV, hepatitis B, hepatitis C and syphilis prior to transfusion. A single unit of blood can benefit several patients. Separating blood into its various components allow a single unit of blood to benefit several patients and provides a patient only the component which is needed. Unnecessary transfusion expose patients to needless risk.
