നല്ല ചങ്ങാതിമാർ

ഒരിടത്ത് ഒരു കാട്ടിൽ രണ്ട് കരടികൾ താമസിച്ചിരുന്നു. മിട്ടുവും കൂട്ടുവും. അവർ നല്ല കൂട്ടുകാരായിരുന്നു. ഒരു ദിവസം അവർ കാട്ടിലൂടെ നടക്കുമ്പോൾ ഒരു മാൻകുഞ്ഞു വലയിൽ പെട്ട് കിടക്കുന്നത് കണ്ടു. അവർ അതിനെ രക്ഷിച്ചു. അത് ഓടി അമ്മയുടെ അരികിൽ ചെന്നു. അടുത്ത ദിവസം കരടികൾ തീറ്റതേടി നടന്നു. മാൻ കുഞ്ഞു അവർക്ക് നിറയെ തേൻ കൊടുത്തു. അവർക്ക് സന്തോഷമായി. അന്നു മുതൽ അവർ മാൻ കുഞ്ഞിനേയും തങ്ങളുടെ ചങ്ങാതിയാക്കി.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE was an English playwright, poet and actor. He is widely regarded as the greatest writer in the English language and the world's pre-eminent dramatist. He is often called England's national poet and the 'Bard of Avon'. His extended works, including collaborations, consist of some 39 plays, 154 sonnets, three long narrative poems and a few other verses. His plays have been translated into every major living language and are performed more often than those of any other playwright. He remains arguably the most influential writer in the English language, and his works continue to be studied and reinterpreted. Shakespeare produced most of his known works between 1589 and 1613. His early plays are primarily comedies and histories and are regarded as some of the best works produced in the genres. He then wrote mainly tragedies until 1608, among them Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, Othello, King Lear and Macbeth, all considered to be among the finest works in the English language. In the last phase of his life, he wrote Tragicomedies and collaborated with other playwrights.

Many of Shakespeare's plays were published in editions of varying quality and accuracy in his lifetime. However, in 1623, two fellow actors and friends of Shakespeare's, John Hemings and Henry Condell, published a more definitive text known as the First Folio, a posthumous collected edition of Shakespeare's dramatic works that included all but two of his plays. Its preface was a prescient poem by Ben Jonson that hailed Shakespeare with the now famous epithet. "not of an age, but for all time". He passed away on 23 April 1616 in England.

10 Fundamental Truths That Will Change Your Life

It's surprising how easy it is to lose sight of the important things in life. Busy schedules and regular routines have a tendency to put the brain on autopilot. When things aren't going quite the way you'd like them to, it's often because you've lost focus on what really matters. But focusing on life's fundamental truths can be difficult, especially when they remind you that you're heading in the wrong direction. The best things in life don't come easily, and failing to observe yourself carefully is a sure path to mediocrity. I believe that Socrates said it best:

“The unexamined life isn't worth living.”

Socrates' observation also applies to business. When Eric Schmidt was CEO of Google, he famously said, “We run this company on questions, not answers.” Life and business run on questions, not answers. You should be asking yourself regularly if you're headed in the right direction. Many of life's essential truths need repeating. We need reminders that help us to stay focused on them. Keep these truths handy and they're sure to give you a much-needed boost.

1. Great success is often preceded by failure

You will never experience true success until you learn to embrace failure. Your mistakes pave the way for you to succeed by revealing when you're on the wrong path. The biggest breakthroughs typically come when you're feeling the most frustrated and the most stuck. It's this frustration that forces you to think differently, to look outside the box and see the solution that you've been missing. Success takes patience and the ability to maintain a good attitude even while suffering for what you believe in.

2. Being busy does not equal being productive

Look at everyone around you. They all seem so busy -- running from meeting to meeting and firing off emails. Yet how many of them are really producing, really succeeding at a high level? Success doesn't come from movement and activity. It comes from focus -- from ensuring that your time is used efficiently and productively. You get the same number of hours in the day as everyone else. Use yours wisely. After all, you're the product of your output, not your effort. Make certain your efforts are dedicated to tasks that get results.

3. You're only as good as those you associate with

You should strive to surround yourself with people who inspire you, people who make you want to be better. And you probably do. But what about the people who drag you down? Why do you allow them to be a part of your life? Anyone who makes you feel worthless, anxious or uninspired is wasting your time and, quite possibly, making you more like them. Life is too short to associate with people like this. Cut them loose.

4. You're living the life you've created

You are not a victim of circumstance. No one can force you to make decisions and take actions that run contrary to your values and aspirations. The circumstances you're living in today are your own -- you created them. Likewise, your future is entirely up to you. If you're feeling stuck, it's probably because you're afraid to take the risks necessary to achieve your goals and live your dreams. When it's time to take action, remember that it's always better to be at the bottom of the ladder you want to climb than at the top of one you don't.

5. Fear is the #1 source of regret

When it's all said and done, you will lament the chances you didn't take far more than you will your failures. Don't be afraid to take risks. I often hear people say, "What's the worst thing that can happen to you? Will it kill you?" Yet, death isn't the worst thing that can happen to you. The worst thing that can happen to you is allowing yourself to die inside while you're still alive.

6. You don't have to wait for an apology to forgive

Life goes a lot smoother once you let go of grudges and forgive even those who never said they were sorry. Grudges let negative events from your past ruin today's happiness. Hate and anger are emotional parasites that destroy your joy in life. The negative emotions that come with holding on to a grudge create a stress response in your body, and holding on to stress can have devastating health consequences. Researchers at Emory University have shown that holding on to stress contributes to high blood pressure and heart disease. When you forgive someone, it doesn't condone their actions; it simply frees you from being their eternal victim.

7. Live in the Moment

You can't reach your full potential until you learn to live your life in the present. No amount of guilt can change the past, and no amount of anxiety can change the future. It's impossible to be happy if you're constantly somewhere else, unable to fully embrace the reality (good or bad) of this very moment.

To help yourself live in the moment, you must do two things:

1. Accept your past. If you don't make peace with your past, it will never leave you and, in doing so, it will create your future.
2. Accept the uncertainty of the future. Worry has no place in the here and now. As Mark Twain once said, "Worrying is like paying a debt you don't owe."

8. Your self-worth must come from within

When your sense of pleasure and satisfaction are derived from comparing yourself to others, you are no longer the master of your own destiny. When you feel good about something that you've done, don't allow anyone's opinions or accomplishments to take that away from you. While it's impossible to turn off your reactions to what others think of you, you don't have to compare yourself to others and you can always take people's opinions with a grain of salt. That way, no matter what other people are thinking or doing, your self-worth comes from within. Regardless of what people think of you at any particular moment, one thing is certain -- you're never as good or bad as they say you are.

9. Life is short

None of us are guaranteed a tomorrow. Yet, when someone dies unexpectedly it causes us to take stock of our own life: what's really important, how we spend our time and how we treat other people. Loss is a raw, visceral reminder of the frailty of life. It shouldn't be. Remind yourself every morning when you wake up that each day is a gift and you're bound to make the most of the blessing you've been given. The moment you start acting like life is a blessing is the moment it will start acting like one. After all, a great day begins with a great mindset.

10. Change is inevitable; embrace it

Only when you embrace change can you find the good in it. You need to have an open mind and open arms if you're going to recognize and capitalize on, the opportunities that change creates. You're bound to fail when you keep doing the same things you always have in the hope that ignoring change will make it go away. After all, the definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting a different result. Life doesn't stop for anyone. When things are going well, appreciate them and enjoy them, as they are bound to change. If you are always searching for something more, something better, that you think is going to make you happy, you'll never be present enough to enjoy the great moments before they're gone.

Staying focused and asking the hard questions can be extremely uncomfortable. But we don't learn and grow by sticking with what's comfortable.

Oneness

"Nothing of me is original. I am the combined effort of everyone I've ever known"

Yes, no one has a single personality. Everyone is a mixture of what they think they are and what they are. The greatest mistake in our lives is that we think we completely know what we are and what others are. But in fact, we don't even know ourselves completely.

Identifying our personality is a great task. We live in a world where people tell us to be someone better always. They always want us to copy another 'better' person and live like them. The most difficult thing to do today is to live exactly as we are. No one in our society allows us to live our lives the way we want. From home to school to working place, everyone is continuously comparing us with other people and compelling us to live a life they think is perfect. People have different needs, different opinions, different perspectives, and different dreams. So it is not easy to live a life that someone chooses for us.

One of the most discussed problems related to identity crisis nowadays is the gender identity crisis. Many people are struggling with their gender identity today. They find it difficult to fit into society. Their lives are made so much more difficult by the rules set by society. People belonging to the gender spectrum other than the one society believes in find it very challenging to come out and reveal the news. They are afraid of the response they are going to receive. So many people live a life that they are forced into.

our society has set a complete book of rules and regulations.

Several people find it very disturbing. They like to live a life where they are happy. A person has complete authority over his/her/their life. They can choose whatever makes them happy without hurting another person. Being happy and peaceful is important. We should get to live a life that we never regret living. People should never force anyone to live another person's life. Everyone is unique. Everyone has the right to live how they find it comfortable. Live and let live.
