

I am with you "

There's something called trust
Once lost, it can't be recovered.
Every one, every heart long for such trust
That ~~something~~^{no} can never capture away.
And I have one such trust -
The only one who said "I am with you"
One who is my trust, my hope, my all in all
Since the day he said "I am with you";
It stands the same till this moment.
I believe our trust to be bounded with Something so heavenly, something so magical.
As Christ once said,
"I have bounded thee with my everlasting love".

When I'm down and O' my soul so weiry
When troubles come and my heart burdened be
But I'm still and wait here in silence
Until you come and sit a while with me; my love!
Because, there's something called love
that soothes everything
The wonderful feeling ever found -
Though it turns to be the worst
When trust is crumbled at once.

All my hope is in him
All my trust is in him and
In every breath, my soul would rest in him.

He raise me up, so I can stand on mountains
He raise me up, to walk on stormy seas
I'm strong when I'm on his shoulders
He raise me up, to more than I can be.
When my soul goes down, I hear
His whispering "I am with you"
And I believe so as he was the one with me
When none was with me; when I was lost in me.

Like a shadow, that never lets you alone
One which walks in front, in life's darkness
One which whispers from behind, in the dawn
One which confines to ourselves in noon,
He stood with me in my life.

It seemed he remember his promise for me,
As once he said "I am with you".

And hence I stand before him in ad most astonishment
Thinking of his love, I'm completely lost in him.

Oh! He loves so great, higher than the stars —
unfading love

Deeper than the sea,

He loves so sure stronger than the mountains
Oh his love is everything to me ...

How great, how wide, how deep; his love!
